Global Issues in Context

The whole world is talking

Take students to the world their textbooks can't

How can a student gain a global perspective when he or she must view it across a mountain of Web results; a wall of reference volumes; a daunting array of conflicting opinions; and a chasm of often questionable search results?

Global Issues in Context extends the life and the value of textbooks by providing both historical context and current viewpoints. Coverage of the countries and issues studied in today's schools includes podcasts, videos and other interactive features to engage and educate.

Prepare students for the challenge of a changing world

Students, teachers, media specialists and others need new tools for understanding the state of the world today.

Global Issues in Context is a media-rich, subject-driven, easy-to-use e-resource that spans the globe to bring essential and balanced information to students seeking to understand crucial international issues and news headlines with a single search.

By tying together news, global viewpoints, reference, country information, primary source documents, videos, statistics and more, Global Issues in Context offers a rich analysis of critical issues ideal for today's curriculums.

Each page is a portal to ensure a world view

Global Issues in Context not only focuses on broad issues such as human rights, poverty, global warming and nuclear proliferation; it also permits a close appraisal of more specific issues like product safety in China, disaster relief in Haiti or genocide in Darfur.

Students explore the world's richest resources

Newspapers, magazines and journals: 600 titles — all in English — from all around the world provide a comprehensive view

Reference works: 80+ of the most-used encyclopedias from Gale and Macmillan offer background information

Web sites: Links to government and organization Web sites – like the United Nations or World Health Organization — help students take action when issues inspire them

Primary Documents: A valuable collection of original sources and media – podcasts, speeches and more – add context to coursework

Statistics: Interactive and static graphs, tables, and charts to round out class projects
